Augusta Health Foundation

inspires giving every day to advance health and wellness of loved ones, friends, and neighbors in our communities.

About Us

OUR COMMUNITY. OUR FUTURE.

Augusta Health is one of only five remaining community-owned health systems in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Opened in 1994, Augusta Health continues a tradition of personalized care and small town hospitality that began over 50 years ago with predecessor hospitals in Staunton and Waynesboro.

Today, our highly trained physicians and team members use state-of-the-art technology to provide patient centered care with warmth and compassion; continuously striving to meet the growing and changing needs of area residents. Team Members are able to meet these community needs only with help from community members, local businesses, and corporate partners.

Numerous exciting initiatives help to advance Augusta Health's vision to become a national model for community-based healthcare including:

- expanding our reach beyond the hospital walls through a Mobile Primary Care Clinic,
- incorporating new advanced technology in surgery, radiology, and breast health in the new Outpatient Pavilion,
- establishing The Farm at Augusta Health to promote food as medicine and reduce food insecurity,
- developing a graduate medical education program to train the next generation of primary care providers,
- and advancing care with a multidisciplinary provider team in the newly expanded Heart and Vascular Center of Excellence.
